"The Nutcracker Suite" presented by Ballet Teen Troupe under the direction of Susan Farrar will be presented at the Bingham Auditorium, Bethel, Maine. Evening performance Saturday, Dec. 1, at 8 p. m. and Sunday matinee, Dec. 2, at 2 p. m.

COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

When a motor vehicle is purchased the person registering it must present a statement signed by the seller indicating the mileage. We have just received the necessary forms to be used along with the license tax forms when the vehicle is licensed. A purchaser should make sure he has these signed at the time of purchase, especially when he buys from an individual. Dealers, no doubt, will furnish them along with the other papers used by them.

The 1974 budget will be presented to the Selectmen during the first of December. There are no indications of sizable increases in any account except summer road maintenance. We do not know, at this time, what to expect for fuel costs. By the time the Budget Committee completes its duties the first of February we shall have more information on that. Welfare will be no account we will not know how budget for due to the new legislation passed this year. Elwyn Decker

HISTORICAL SOCIETY TO MEET DECEMBER 6

The next meeting of the Bethel Historical Society will be held on December 6, featuring a program about the Chapman House as one of the historical Bethel Houses, its origin, history and especially its various influential and colorful inhabitants. Cathy Newell and Rolly Chapman are cooperating on the research and presentation. It should prove of interest to Bethel people of all ages and, as usual, the public is invited. New members will be especially welcome.

The Education Committee will present a selection of topics for research projects concerning Bethel's history to be followed up during the coming winter. They hope this will provide interest for many members and non-members.

The kitchen of the meeting hall is being readied by the Kitchen and Equipment Committee, as can be attested by Gede Quinn, Chris Grover and Tootsie Merrill, who spent four hours on Monday afternoon unpacking and washing the dishes and equipment enough to serve 72 people. An ad hoc committee is looking into the conditions under which members of the community may make use of the meeting hall.

The Furnishings Committee has made its decision regarding the wall treatment of the Moses Mason Museum, some rooms of which are to be painted, some papered, and one of which will combine painting and papering, a popular fashion of the nineteenth century. The restoration of the hall's murals has been completed.

The Education Committee reports that the workshop on "Maine Woodland Indians" held recently at Telstar High School and the Moses Mason House was very successful, with over 250 children and many adults participating.

LOCAL DEER KILL SHOWS SHARP DECLINE FROM 1972

The Gage Service Center Game Tagging Station reports a season total of seven bear and 54 deer, 23 of which were shot by local hunters. (However, two of those listed as local are former residents, actually now out of state.)

Compared with the 1972 season, when 127 deer were tagged in Bethel, there is a definite decrease in the reported deer kill. Gilead, like Bethel, showed a very sharp decline in deer tagged, as there were 13 registered this year compared to approximately 35 in 1972. Four bear were also registered at Carver's game station in Gilead.

Successful hunters registered at the Gage Station during the last few days of the season included Gregory Merrill, Bethel, and Oscar Johnson of Locke Mills.

From Greenwood: Arnold Jordan, Robert Dunham, Jean Millett, Malen Kimball, Jean Morgan, From Newry: Peggy Wight, Woodstock: Alice Johnson. There are four citizen members to fill from both Newry and Woodstock.

At present, Superintendent of Schools, Basil Kinney, Edward Egan, S. A. D. Assessment Coordinator, K. B. Farnes, Gunther, interim representative, Telstar Educators Association, John C. Anderson and Patricia Hudson, S. A. D. #44 board of directors, Building representatives S. A. D. #44 schools: Timothy Lavalley, Telstar, Joyce Morgan, Andover, Mary Jane Gaudreau, Ethel Bisbee School; Michael Gilbert, R. C. Foster School; Virginia Kelly, C. P. S.; Natalie Timberlake, Woodstock; Barbara Ferguson, Locke Mills.

Mrs. Hudson, interim chairman, established a committee to review the local company school land use study plan of 1967, and to expand it to include the entire district. GOVERNOR AND PRESIDENT MAKE RECOMMENDATIONS TO COPE WITH ENERGY CRISIS

On Tuesday evening, Maine Gov. Kenneth Curtis, because of the energy crisis, lowered the speed limit on Maine highways. On the interstate system and Turnpike the limit is 55 m. p. h., with all other highways being 50 m. p. h. The same limit applies to all vehicles.

He said he felt that citizens could use indoor Christmas lights for at least a few days before the holiday, and said there were no immediate plans to close the schools.

He did, however, request that individual school units take strict conservation measures. Gov. Curtis said that extra curricular activities, including sports, need not be banned but should be reduced and held during daylight hours whenever possible.

He said he would ask the legislature for emergency powers that would enable him to close schools, order voltage reductions, ban advertising lighting, control speed limits and control the use of recreational vehicles such as snowmobiles.

On Sunday night President Nixon announced that beginning Jan. 1 there would be a 15% cut in delivery of home heating oil; 10% in heating oil delivered to industry, and a 25% cut to commercial users. He asked for a voluntary ban on sales of gasoline between 9 p. m. Saturdays and midnight Sundays. This would be made mandatory upon Congressional approval as would a national 50 m. p. h. speed limit for autos and 55 m. p. h. for long distance trucks and buses.

Timothy Lavalley will chair a committee to review and update the 1965 list of Bethel residents, Engelhardt & Legett concerning Telstar members are Phyllis Duck, Joan Morgan, Jean Millett, and John C. Anderson.

Attacking the problem of Educational Requirements of K-6 are Mary Diven, chairman, Virginia Kelly, Joyce Morgan, Alice Johnson, Melvin Kimball, and Michael Gilbert.

The committee indicated its desire to the board of directors that early adoption of a district wide philosophy is basic to its function. Mrs. Hudson indicated that she had no desire to function as permanent chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee.

The Committee's next meeting is scheduled for Telstar's Lecture Hall at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday, Dec. 11.

A "Remember December" day of skating on Sango Pond is planned for next April.

GREENWOOD CITY

— Mrs. Collis Morgan, Corres. —

Greenwood's sunshine was warm and bright as I walked up the bulldozer road and into the farm fields.

The goldenrod and asters in their gray tops decorated me with tiny feathers down.

The puddles over which I had to stride were patterned lightly with thin ice as the sun lacked the necessary heat to melt it.

There were small sounds—crackles in the under brush, a rustle in the leaves or the fall of a cone. Just as I came to the first cellar a red squirrel zipped in front of me and into the wall. I know he was telling me things which only he understood.

Moving toward the top of the hill I looked to the clouds. They seemed to grow upward and lean over the pond. The sky became bluer as they climbed or maybe it seemed so because of the contrast with their whiteness. The pond was a mirror of ice which reflected spectacles of the shore line.

Now fields have taken on a cinnamon tone. The blackberry bushes along the wall were frosted with purple while all around were the sober hues.

At the top of the hill I sat down and listened to the quiet and reflected on how much there is to be thankful for.

By the rock on which I sat I noticed countless little jewels twinkling in the sun, soft and bright. The feather etchings of the morning frost snuggled in the grass.

Looking over town there were lazy smoke curls from chimneys, adding to the mood of tranquility. The town was so peaceful and still creating a painting all should see.

Looking in at the brook where the water drops over the roots of trees there was a gallery of forms of ice. Here motion had been caught and held, frozen motion of grace and lightness. There were intricate cross patterns and rare crystal needles, cousins to the snow flakes soon to come.

Returning to my bowl of hills I heard a tinkle of notes from the thicket at my right; a flock of evening grosbeaks flew among the evergreens. They would hesitate, fly out, wheel overhead, land and feed. So when at the time when all the world thinks that the forest has gone to sleep there is life—the migration of birds.

All of the kinds of evergreens stood at one side, each giving its special tone in the wind. One fir had caught a dead leaf so that it never completed its journey to the ground, but rather was impaled upon a twig and there it blew in the wind, swaying with the motion of the fir.

As I walked through the open field toward home the grass crunched beneath my feet. I wondered if this would be my last "brown" walk. Would next time be on snow shoes?

The mountains cut into the sky, darkening now, pink where the red tag can catch the horizon and black where the timber was heavy. How quickly the daylight dropped into darkness and the evening star appeared over Patch Mountain.

David Holt, 1930 was at home over the holiday week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Morgan were dinner guests Thanksgiving of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Haskala.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Haskala joined Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Anderson, Bryant Pond, for Thanksgiving.

Rensel Colby, and have lived in West Paris all of their married life except for the first year while Mr. Emery attended barber school, at which time they lived in Portland. Mr. Emery has operated a barber shop and Mrs. Emery has worked in Penley Brother's office for the past 24 years. Over forty relatives were present to honor the couple. Telephone greetings were received from Mr. Emery's brother, Dale Emery of Wilton, Conn., and Mrs. Emery's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. James Hamby, Seattle, Wash. Those who assisted in serving refreshments were: Myrtle Heikkinen, Evelyn Bean and Barbara Edmunds. Betty Hall circulated the guest book. The anniversary cake was made by Mrs. Gordon.

The Planning Board of the Town of West Paris would like to pass the following information to the people.

The new state law has said that all Maine property owners must apply for licenses for all sewage lines which discharge directly into any lake, pond, river or stream.

Dec. 31 is the filing date for every discharge not now licensed by the Environmental Protection.

Applications may be obtained from the planning board, or by asking at the town office. Applications can also be returned to the town office, and from there they will be mailed to the state.

All those must file by Dec. 31 deadline if they have any waste discharge which goes directly into the water through a privately owned sewer system. All owners of such discharge, including private home owners, commercial establishments, and large corporations are required to apply under the terms of the law.

No application is required for those whose wastes are connected to a municipal sewage system, or an adequately operated septic tank leaching system.

Others are those who registered their discharge with the D. E. P. last spring under the laws (grandfather clause) or those whose discharges are already licensed, or who have already a license application on file.

If more information is wanted please contact the planning board who will meet every 1st and 3rd Tuesday in every month. The board meets at seven in the evening. All 50 people can contact any member. Phelps Poland is the chairman of the planning board of the town. The meetings are held at the town office.

HOW TO PEEL AN ONION

by Wolf Cherry

The President's suggestions of last Sunday night have come late and offer little assurance of a solution to the fuel problem. The gasoline shortage was patently obvious since April to anyone living on the East Coast. However, the Congress has been much too busy exploiting, to the fullest extent, the political potential known as "Watergate". They continue to do so, and no sensible plan for handling the fuel shortage is forthcoming. They look to the President for direction by which the public may be reassured.

Had the Congress read the signs and spent their time in proper channel, they would be well on their way toward devising a sound system of allocating the available fuel oils. Instead, we are caught, as the cold of winter approaches, with nothing more reassuring than the President's plan for individual restraint. Such plans, in the past, have done little to keep the wage price spiral from searing, for instance.
What is needed is a strong divisive by Congress, and the establi-ment of governmental machinery to put it in motion.

The President and some members of Congress have expressed fears that such machinery would require the creation of yet another large Bureau. Not necessarily so. We already have a large Department of Transportation that could handle the allocation of fuel. Any additional employees needed could be brought in from other Agencies. There is and always has been plenty of "fat" in Federal Government Agencies.

Financial Columnist for the Boston Globe, Robert Lenz, referring to the layers of an onion in writing of Wall Street's concern over the energy crisis. This is an apt metaphor. It is apparent that what disturbs the man on the street most is the availability of gasoline to drive his car. Availability of gasoline is a serious matter and the public should have some assurance that something can be done to reduce the number of those who will respond to pleas for oil restraint.

Most of the onion—13% of available fuel is used in passenger cars. At least three layers of the onion are peeled off, and peeling that depth will produce tears. Not as many as the onion layers, but tears, more than the dry, outer skin of the onion. The dry, outer skin of the onion is peeled carefully, and causes no tears at all. Continuing operation of all national pleasure craft boats and could be expected to peel the inner part of the herb.

In the same equation, we might also peel away all devices which consume fuel to create playthings and pleasures for those who can afford them and do not care to use restrained pleasure. If any trains are used for the carting of these matter of pleasure, they will be used by people involved in the production, sale and maintenance of such equipment and devices. Some live in our community and are our friends, for example, recreational facilities, entertainment in various forms, and so on. These entire until we get some real discretion from the Congress on the President's voluntary restraint will not work.

The next layer of the onion, if removed with attention, will bring many tears; it does with care and caution. The difference could be in the way the onion is peeled. Of course, the onion is talking of course, about private transportation. Please do not believe that all we wish the restricted hours of sale and license for these cars, and that is a common shared expectation. Further, can and of the sale of gasoline could be a hard sell to make, and even certainly, personal embarrassment in filling station members. Already a new oil peeling into one's clothes fills this regular tank, plus two or three spare tanks. Refiners are not peeling and ought not to have to concern themselves with cheat-ers.

Whichever device setting entails it, it changes, much cars, or what have you there will be discussed. Thus over and over but it is something the Jones, who must make a weekly trip to her doctor, will more likely be able to do it.

THE SUNDAY RIVER BEANPOT was nearly full on Sunday, Nov. 18, when Robert M. Bean and his descendants gathered at the Sunday River Inn for an early Thanksgiving family reunion. A traditional dinner, bountiful and delicious, was served 33 members and one guest.

Present were Robert Bean, his eight children, 13 grandchildren, and 22 great-grandchildren.

Eight grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren were unable to attend.

Much missed was Mrs. Robert Bean, who died 13 years ago.
Deceased above are: Seated (left to right)—Winifred Scott, Robert M.
Bean, Robert F. Bean, Ernestine MacDonald, Stanching: Frances Gunther, Ina Carey, Roy Tripp, Mary Tripp, Ruth Bran, Pauline Chapin, Charles Chapin, Jane Young, and Archie Young.

#2943 TO MEET
The Barracks and Auxiliary #2913 of World War I will hold a regular meeting at the Legion Hall on Tuesday, Dec. 4. It will be preceded by a 6 o'clock supper and a tree and exchange of gifts will follow.

The committee for December is Mrs. Maude Danforth, Mrs. Leoni Lewney and Mrs. Leona Curtis.

It would be a relief to the resident of her neighbors. Gas rationing during World War II was un-palatable, but it did work. Now, with computers available to do the work of hundreds, a more foolproof system probably can be devised.

The next few layers of the onion draw many tears, for they contain much of the acid whose fumes seem to produce tears no matter how carefully laid back. 12% of our available fuel is taken up in public transportation and commercial shipping. No matter how carefully we peel, it will smart, but peel we must.

Public transportation is now largely air traffic in a very costly system.
A good, hard look at restoration of more legitimate land vehicles is in order. The same may be said for modes of shipping. More payload per unit of fuel must be made possible.

In all of these suggested changes to the consumption of fuel oil, there will be a direct effect on the economy at all levels. But there seems to be no alternative. There are, after all, two "MISTES" for human beings if we are to remain healthy.
We must eat, and we must be protected from the elements. All other needs are relative and will have to be met. We will have these two needs fulfilled. Only if you require more, do you have any cause for alarm.

This brings us to the next layer of the onion. Heating oil. Twenty percent of all consumed is burned to heat dwellings, business establishments, and public institutions. Please for personal restraint can't work.
Public and private institutions talk of closing down periodically, or shortening their hours of activity, but few have taken positive steps toward allocation of this commodity to its most important use. Unless one lives behind the imaginary line between Savannah and Los Angeles, to must have fuel to warm the home. As in the case of the embarrassed gas station operator, please for restraint will only result in tears and embarrassment to retailers.

The American public, when faced with real crises, has always risen to the challenge, but there is little need for needless sacrifice in any of us. Conservation of oil and fuel has been a real test to foreign countries can only have a disheartening effect on the American public. If there is a demonstrable and absolute need for the exportation of our energy, by all means, let's have an explanation.

The foregoing reflects the various feelings of taxpayers, gleaned through conversations with resident during the past week. Doubtless, some citizens will disagree.

At a later time, we will discuss the remaining 52% of the onion, and venture opinions as to what might be done to conserve energy in the production of durable goods.

UPTON

— Mrs. Arline Bernier, Corres.
Fred Juddkins II and family and Mr. and Mrs. Douglass Bennett were holiday guests of Fred and Mrs.
Mae.

Mae Goodrum and sister of Barlin, N. H., spent a day last week visiting with a friend and working on a quilt.

Christine Murphy returned home from a several days vacation.
The Ed Brennans, Ray Chittams and Mike and Margie Yarnell spent Thanksgiving week end in town.
Elsie Fuller and Merna Allen were dinner guests at the Brennan home Thursday, Saturday night the three families gathered for skating and a bonfire at the lake.

Mae, Elsie and I went to South Paris Wednesday on business and pleasure.

The forecast for Thursday was rain and we expected to shovel snow, but the temperatures rose during the night. We had light snowfall Saturday night but it soon melted.

One of the Senators advocated daylight saving time remarking that we could use a bit more sunshine.
Perhaps the legislators could rearrange the calendar giving us nine months of Spring and Summer and and we would have more green growth and less white stuff.

If the energy crisis gets too bad, Fred may need to wear an old fashioned night cap to bed, then he could sleep late when he wanted to in spite of the chain saws.

On the way home from Auburn, Thursday, we saw three large deer in the road in the Smith Crossing section of Rumford.

Some of the Abbott clan of East Sumner and Buckfield joined the Bernier clan Sunday for a holiday dinner. There were 30 of us in all.

Simonne Lavallee, Roger, Lar-rent and Wilfred Lavallee were at the Lavallee home during the week end. A columnist in the Norway paper described the children's Halloween costumes. One youngster was an angel's attire but her halo kept slipping. Many of us wear an angelic veneer much of the time but do have trouble keeping the halo in place.

NORTHWEST BETHEL

Mrs. Louise B. Chapman, Corres.

As we approach the Christmas season this year, some things have changed. In view of the energy crisis, we are being asked to curtail outdoor lighting and displays, actually all this means is we'll have to bring Christmas inside, not only into our homes, but into our hearts.

If we really try we can find all the lighting we need within ourselves. Christmas is more than decorations and window displays. If the energy crisis can divert us from the growing commercialized ways, maybe Christmas can be returned to its original purpose, and a little more thought can be given to the real meaning of the holiday. Don't get me wrong, there is nothing I like better than the excitement and beauty of Christmas. I'm only saying maybe we've been getting excited about, and finding beauty in the wrong things. Simplicity can be beautiful. Christmas will still be very much with us, even if the lights are put out, and maybe the energy crisis can help us find and re-evaluate the real meaning of Christmas.

Thanksgiving was observed on the Casco Bank Building Dec. 8. The meetings will be held there, once a month, on the fourth Saturday, for the winter months.

The Mothers' Club will meet Dec. 1, at 7 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Parris Post.

Donald Hayner and Carol were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul O'Neal, Bear River Camps, Eustis, during the week end.

Aarne Cummings and son, Hart, had spent the week end at their camp.

Albert Cortegelli and friend, Cranston, R. I., were at the Cottage trailer for the week end.

Dec. 5, 1971

We think of you in silence And make no outward show But what it meant to lose you No one will ever know.
You wished no one a last farewell Yet even said Good Bye
You were gone before we knew it And only God knows why.
A golden heart stopped beating Your tender hands at rest God broke our hearts to prove to us He only takes the best.
Your tears were made from heart-aches By adding tear drops too We'd build a stairway to heaven And climb it each day to you Too deeply loved and missed to ever be forgotten.
